

September is National Child Passenger Safety Month: Buckle up the ones you love!!

While September is National Child Passenger Safety Month and we could provide lots of tips on how to keep your kids safe in the car, we have an important message for adults in this edition. It is well documented that if the adults in the car are buckled and role model that behavior, kids are more likely to be properly restrained as well. Our hope is that parents and caregivers buckle up, not because the law tells them to, but because they want to set a good example for the kids in their lives. Besides role modeling the behavior and safety practices they want to see their kids adhere to, buckling up increases the survivability in a motor vehicle crash and let's be honest, our kids need parents to be safe and protected too.

Adults: Role model the behavior you want your kids to follow. Buckle up; it saves lives!!

There is lots to know about the laws in our state, the use of proper car seats and even what ones to buy for your kids. Maybe you wonder if your student is ready to transition from a car seat to a booster seat, or from a booster to a seat belt. Safe Kids is here to help and answer those questions for you. As a parent, do you have questions about the teen graduated drivers licensing laws and how they impact the number of people that can be in your teen's car with them? Do you wonder which hours of the day they are restricted from driving or other components of that law? Safe Kids Grand Forks is here to help with those questions too. You see, being a parent / caregiver / role model takes the right knowledge and resources and we want to be your partners and point of contact for questions you may have. Our goal at Safe Kids Grand Forks is to provide you with accurate information on how to best protect your family in motor vehicles.
